This literature relating to the immigrant experience, all in all, proved a most welcome injection into the American literary tradition. By the late nineteenth century the traditional currents of American literature no longer represented the mainstream of American experience.

Other introductory accounts of Jewish immigrant experience include Edward A. Abramson, The Immigrant Experience in American Literature (BAAS Pamphlets in American Studies 10, British Association for American Studies,) and Burchell, R. A. and Homberger, Eric, "The Immigrant Experience," in Bradbury, Malcolm and Temperley, Howard, eds., Introduction to American Studies, second edn.
